The Climate and Agriculture Network for Africa (CANA) is an interactive, knowledge sharing web platform by a diverse range of partners drawn from the region. CANA brings together researchers, policy makers and other players within climate science and agriculture seeking to build resilience. Through CANA, we share, learn and promote conversations on best practices that impact African agriculture.

Key themes: building resilience to climate change, low emissions development, financing climate change adaptation, policies for adaptation, climate-smart agriculture and gender and equity.
